natural science as well as engineering and technology. The articles published in CST must have gone through a rapid, yet demanding, peer-review process managed by an editorial board of professional editors.

CST publishes comprehensive articles on theoretical and experimental research (detail scope can be read in author section) as

- Current Interest
- Review Articles
- Original Article
- Opinion
- Case Reports
- Short Communications

CST aims to be a comprehensive source of information on recent developments in aforementioned field. CST also facilitates communication among scientists and engineers from interdisciplinary field to develop new research opportunities.

Peer Review Process

Peer Review

Reviewer and author are known to each other.

Some believe this is the best way to prevent malicious comments, stop plagiarism, prevent reviewers from following their own agenda, and encourage open, honest reviewing. Others see open review as a less honest process, in which politeness or fear of retribution may cause a reviewer to withhold or tone down criticism.

INVITATION AS A REVIEWER: TANGGAL 15 Mei 2018

The screenshot shows a Gmail interface with a search bar containing 'CST'. The left sidebar shows the 'Compose' button and a list of folders: Mail (99+), Chat, Spaces, and Meet. The 'Inbox' folder is selected, showing 1,556 emails. The 'Labels' section includes 'agusmirwan@unla...', 'Moved 2019-01-30...', and 'Notes'. The main content area displays an email from Meilana Dharma Putra (mdputra@unlam.ac.id) dated May 15, 2018, 12:02 PM. The subject is '[CST] Registration as Reviewer with Communications in Science and Technology'. The email text reads: 'In light of your expertise, we have taken the liberty of registering your name in the reviewer database for Communications in Science and Technology. This does not entail any form of commitment on your part, but simply enables us to approach you with a submission to possibly review. On being invited to review, you will have an opportunity to see the title and abstract of the paper in question, and you'll always be in a position to accept or decline the invitation. You can also ask at any point to have your name removed from this reviewer list. We are providing you with a username and password, which is used in all interactions with the journal through its website. You may wish, for example, to update your profile, including your reviewing interests. Username: Password: Thank you, Communications in Science and Technology. The following message is being delivered on behalf of Communications in Science and Technology.' Below the email text are 'Reply' and 'Forward' buttons.

The screenshot shows a Gmail interface with a search bar containing 'CST'. The left sidebar is identical to the first screenshot. The main content area displays an email from Meilana Dharma Putra (mdputra@unlam.ac.id) dated Tue, May 15, 2018, 12:02 PM. The subject is '[CST] Article Review Request'. The email text reads: 'Dear Dr. Agus Mirwan, I believe that you would serve as an excellent reviewer of the manuscript, "Enhancing Thermal and Mechanical Properties of Polypropylene Using Masterbatches of Nanoclay and Nano-CaCO3: Short Review," which has been submitted to Communications in Science and Technology. The submission's abstract is inserted below, and I hope that you will consider undertaking this important task for us. Please log into the journal web site by 2018-05-16 to indicate whether you will undertake the review or not, as well as to access the submission and to record your review and recommendation. The web site is <https://cst.kipmi.or.id/index.php/cst>. The review itself is due 2018-05-20. If you do not have your username and password for the journal's web site, you can use this link to reset your password (which will then be emailed to you along with your username). <https://cst.kipmi.or.id/index.php/cst/login/lostPassword>.
